STATEMENT OF THE CASE

IN RE: J.R.

To the Honorable Judges of the Fifth Court of Appeals:

J.R., Appellant, presents this opening brief.

6. STATEMENT OF THE CASE

STATEMENT CONCERNING ORAL ARGUMENT

Appellant requests oral argument, but Appellant recognizes that this is an accelerated appeal, and that oral argument may not be feasible.

ISSUES PRESENTED

Appellant presents two issues for appeal.

Issue One: Section 54.02(h) and Moon require a juvenile court to specifically explain the facts that underly a decision to certify a juvenile. This requirement demands that a juvenile court show that the court engaged in a deliberative effort and made a reasoned decision. Here, the trial court's order failed to include any mention of [the appellant's intellectual, medical, and conduct history, omitted from this transcription]. Did the trial court honor § 54.02(h) and Moon?

Issue Two: In his second issue, Appellant contends that the evidence is factually insufficient to find that Appellant was sufficiently sophisticated and mature to certify him as an adult. Specifically the overwhelming preponderance of the evidence showed that Appellant was unsophisticated and immature. Did the trial court err in finding that Appellant was mature and sophisticated and belongs in the adult criminal system to face a charge for Murder?

The State of Texas charged Appellant, a juvenile, with Murder. Tex. Penal Code § 19.02(c). [CR 6]. The State filed its first petition for discretionary transfer on March 5, 2020. [CR 13]. The State filed an amended petition for discretionary transfer on March 24, 2020. [CR 25]. The juvenile court held a certification hearing on October 5, 2020. [CR 11]. The Court certified Appellant. [CR 92]. The case was transferred to the adult system. [CR 96]. This accelerated appeal follows. [CR 106].

STATEMENT OF FACTS RELEVANT TO ISSUES PRESENTED

[Parts A through C of the filed statement of facts (the appellant's background, the offense, and the investigation) describe a minor and are omitted from this transcription.]

D. Certification Hearing: The State's Case Focuses on the Charge

The First Addendum to the Social Evaluation indicated that on July 8, 2020 that the Lyle B. Medlock Residential Treatment Center agreed to house J.R. [CR 59]. The Lyle B. Medlock Residential Treatment Center is a residential setting that provides juvenile services in a safe and secure environment. As a resident in this program, J.R. would attend the Dallas County Juvenile Justice Charter School. Outside of school hours, activities include individual, group and family counseling, substance-abuse education, recreational activities, spiritual support, and life-skills training in a cognitive learning format. [CR 59].

The Second Addendum explained that "[t]he subject continues to maintain Honor status without any infractions to note." [CR 79].

J.R. was sixteen-years old at the time of the offense. [RR 37]. A petition was filed for the offense of Murder in juvenile court and the State sought to certify J.R. as an adult. [CR 6-14]. During the hearing, the evidence could not link any one person (and certainly not J.R.) to the gun. [RR 54]. It was clear that no one intended for Gloria Roque to be shot. [RR 77]. And, Shannon Wright, from juvenile probation, testified that J.R.'s diagnoses of Bipolar and Autism Spectrum Disorder were not known to probation prior to this offense. [RR 103-104].

After the evaluations were completed, J.R. matched with a placement, Medlock. [RR 103]. Medlock was willing to accept J.R. and provide services that would meet his needs. [RR 103]. Ms. Wright did not know whether an adult prison could provide services to J.R., but she did testify that J.R. would be at risk in an adult prison. [RR 105, 106]. No other witness testified about the mental-health services available in adult prisons. Ms. Wright testified that there would be no danger to the community if J.R. were sentenced to the Texas Juvenile Justice Department (TJJD). [RR 110]. She also testified that all the recommendations from the psychological assessment could be treated in TJJD. [RR 110]. It is clear from his record that while in detention J.R.'s conduct was exemplary. [RR 112], [CR 103-105]. This pre-printed form directed the juvenile court only to the factors that support certification. [CR 103-105].

The Court entered a Waiver of Jurisdiction and Order of Transfer to a Criminal District Court on October 7, 2020. [CR 96].

E. The District Court's Order

E. The District Court's Order

The juvenile court made rote findings that followed the standard for certification. [CR 96-99]. The laborious findings read:

The juvenile court made rote findings that followed the standard for certification. [CR 96-99]. The laborious findings read:

The reasons for this disposition are that: The Respondent is charged with Violating penal law of the grade of felony; the Respondent was fourteen (14) years old or older at the time he is alleged to have committed the offense; no adjudication hearing has been conducted concerning this alleged offense; [the findings that follow are omitted from this transcription], the prospects of adequate protection of the public and the likelihood of rehabilitation of the child by use of procedures, services and facilities currently available to the juvenile court is remote; and it is desirable that all parties to the offense be tried in one court since the accomplices are adults.

The reasons for this disposition are that: The Respondent is charged with Violating penal law of the grade of felony; the Respondent was fourteen (14) years old or older at the time he is alleged to have committed the offense; no adjudication hearing has been conducted concerning this alleged offense; the Respondent's conduct was willful and Violent; a deadly weapon, to wit: a firearm, was used during the course of the offense; personal injury and death resulted to the victim, Gloria Roque; the offense was so serious that transfer to a District Court with criminal jurisdiction must be granted; the Respondent has not accepted or responded to supervision; the Respondent refuses to remain away from associates in the community who habitually violate the law; the sophistication of the child is excessive for his age; and his level of maturity is sufficient; the background of the Respondent indicates that the welfare of the community requires criminal prosecution; the previous history of the Respondent indicates a present need for placement of the child in a controlled, structured facility; the public

Appellant timely filed his notice of appeal and this appeal follows. [CR 106].

9. SUMMARY OF THE ARGUMENT

The easiest resolution to this appeal is to recognize that the State charged J.R. with Murder, to acknowledge that he committed a prior robbery, and to find that he should be tried as an adult. But § 54.02 of the Family Code prevents this sort of easy resolution. Instead, § 54.02 requires a juvenile court to conduct an individualized and meaningful investigation into a juvenile before certifying him or her as an adult. And the caselaw specifically prohibits using only the alleged offense as a basis to certify. Strong evidence of this prohibition on the charge being determinative of certification is the fact that TJJD has a special unit for capital offenders. [2 RR 120]. If a capital offense automatically justified transfer, then there would be no need for a special unit within TJJD for capital offenders.

The Court of Criminal Appeals' opinion in Moon was transformative. It required, among other things, for a juvenile court to set out its deliberative process in a written order (§ 54.02(h) order) when the juvenile court has decided to certify a juvenile as an adult. Further, Moon limited a sufficiency review to the facts set out in the § 54.02(h) order. In requiring the juvenile court to set out its deliberative process and then limiting a sufficiency review to that order, Moon required the § 54.02(h) order to include deliberation on the evidence that supported and weighed against certification. Here the § 54.02(h) order includes none of the evidence related to [the mitigating evidence listed in the filed brief, omitted from this transcription].

10. STANDARD OF REVIEW AND LAW FOR JUVENILE CERTIFICATION

The standard of review for Appellant's two issues is identical. To avoid unnecessary repetition, Appellant provides one standard of review that applies to all of his issues.

STANDARD OF REVIEW AND LAW FOR JUVENILE CERTIFICATION

I. Standard of Review

The standard of review for Appellant's two issues is identical. To avoid unnecessary repetition, Appellant provides one standard of review that applies to all of his issues.

This Court recently explained the standard of review, writing:

> Our review of a transfer order is two-pronged. First, we review the juvenile court's specific findings of fact concerning the section 54.02(f) factors under a 'traditional sufficiency of the evidence review.' Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 47. When reviewing the legal sufficiency of the evidence, we credit evidence favorable to the challenged finding and disregard contrary evidence unless a reasonable fact finder could not reject the evidence. In the Matter of S.G.R., 496 S.W.3d 235, 239 (Tex. App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2016, no pet.). If there is more than a scintilla of evidence that supports the finding, then the proof is legally sufficient and the challenge fails. Id. When reviewing the factual sufficiency of the evidence, we consider all of the evidence presented to determine if the juvenile court's findings are so against the great weight and preponderance of the proof as to be clearly wrong and unjust. Id. But on review of the sufficiency of the evidence supporting waiver is limited to the facts the juvenile court expressly relied on in its transfer order. Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 50; In the Matter of S.G.R., 496 S.W.3d at 239.

In re L.W., No. 05-19-00966-CV, 2020 Tex. App. LEXIS 1262, at *27-28 (Tex. App.—Dallas Feb. 13, 2020, no pet.).[1]

Second, we review the juvenile court's ultimate waiver decision for an abuse of discretion. In the Matter of S.G.R., 496 S.W.3d at 239 (citing Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 47). A juvenile court abuses its discretion when its decision to transfer is essentially arbitrary, given the evidence upon which it was based. Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 47. 'As with any decision that lies within the discretion of the trial court, the salient question is not whether we might have decided the issue differently." In the Matter of S.G.R., 496 S.W.3d at 239. 'Instead, we consider in light of our review of the sufficiency of the evidence whether the juvenile court's decision represents a reasonably principled application of the Section 54.02(f) factors or was essentially arbitrary or made without reference to the statutory criteria for waiver. Id. (citing Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 47). As long as the juvenile court correctly applies these statutory criteria and complies with the requirement to specifically state its supporting findings, its waiver decision generally will pass muster under this standard of review. Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 49. '[A] juvenile court that shows its work should rarely be reversed.' Id.

Whether a court's decision necessarily involves the balancing of multiple factors "[r]eview of these individual factors necessarily involves fact determinations and legal conclusions. The balancing test as a whole, however, is a purely legal question. Legal questions are reviewed de novo." Johnson v. State, 954 S.W.2d 770, 771 (Tex. Crim. App. 1997). Reversal is required if the court below engages in a flawed analysis of any one of the balancing factors. Id.

II. The Law Related to Waiver of Juvenile Court Jurisdiction

The United States Supreme Court in Kent v. United States, 383 U.S. 541, 556, 86 S. Ct. 1045 (1966), stated "[i]t is clear beyond dispute that the waiver of jurisdiction is a 'critically important' action determining vitally important statutory rights of the juvenile." The Court characterized the "decision as to waiver of jurisdiction and transfer of the matter to the District Court [as] potentially as important to petitioner as the difference between five years imprisonment and a death sentence." Id. at 557. The very act of a transfer to a criminal district court carries with it the deprivation of the right to be detained in the protective commits an abuse of discretion. Walker v. Packer, 827 S.W.2d 833, 840 (Tex. 1992). The abuse of discretion standard is equivalent to a de novo review because the court has no discretion to misapply the law. Id.

A court also commits an abuse of discretion if it makes findings of fact supported by legally or factually insufficient evidence. LMC Complete Automotive, Inc. v. Burke, 229 S.W.3d 469, 483 (Tex. App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2007, pet. denied). Where, as here, a court's decision necessarily involves the balancing of multiple factors "[r]eview of these individual factors necessarily involves fact determinations and legal conclusions. The balancing test as a whole, however, is a purely legal question. Legal questions are reviewed de novo." Johnson v. State, 954 S.W.2d 770, 771 (Tex. Crim. App. 1997). Reversal is required if the court below the law, makes an error of law, or misapplies the law to the facts, it commits an abuse of discretion. Walker v. Packer, 827 S.W.2d 833, 840 (Tex. 1992). The abuse of discretion standard is equivalent to a de novo review because the court has no discretion to misapply the law. Id.

A court also commits an abuse of discretion if it makes findings of fact supported by legally or factually insufficient evidence. LMC Complete Automotive, Inc. v. Burke, 229 S.W.3d 469, 483 (Tex. App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2007, pet. denied). Where, as here, a court's decision necessarily involves the balancing of important to petitioner as the difference between five years imprisonment and a jurisdiction is a "critically important" action determining vitally important statutory rights of the juvenile. The Court characterized the "decision as to waiver of jurisdiction and transfer of the matter to the District Court [as] potentially as important to petitioner as the difference between five years imprisonment and a death sentence." Id. at 557. The very act of a transfer to a criminal district court carries with it the deprivation of the right to be detained in the protective environment of the Juvenile Justice Center pending trial, and after trial once convicted, and the rehabilitative and educational programs that would be available under the Family Code if the proceeding were in a juvenile court.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals echoed Kent, stating: "transfer to criminal district court for adult prosecution is 'the single most serious act the juvenile court can perform . . . because once waiver of jurisdiction occurs, the child loses all protective and rehabilitative possibilities available.'" Hidalgo v. State of Texas, 983 S.W.2d 746, 755 (Tex. Crim. App. 1999). The Hidalgo Court noted that "transfer was intended to be used only in exceptional cases" and that "[t]he philosophy was that, whenever possible, children should be protected and rehabilitated rather than subjected to the harshness of the criminal system because children, all children are worth redeeming." Id.

ARGUMENT

First Issue Presented

Section 54.02(h) and Moon require a juvenile court to specifically explain the facts that underly a decision to certify a juvenile. This requirement demands that a juvenile court show that the court engaged in a deliberative effort and made a reasoned decision. Did the trial court honor § 54.02(h) and Moon?

I. Standard of Review

Appellant incorporates the standard of review from the start of this brief into this issue in full.

II. Law

protection of the public and the likelihood of the rehabilitation of the child by use of procedures, services, and facilities currently available to the juvenile court.

Section 54.02 of the Family Code conditions a juvenile court's discretion to waive jurisdiction. Tex. Fam. Code § 54.02(f).

Id. at 38 (quoting § 54.02(f)). The juvenile court must also "make specific findings of fact regarding each of the section 54.02(f) factors." In re J.G., 495 S.W.3d 354, 367 (Tex. App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2016, pet denied); see Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 47; 49-50.

While the juvenile court does not demand that a Court find that every factor in § 54.02(f) support transferring the case, Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 28, 47 & n.78 (citing Hidalgo, 983 S.W.2d at 754), the Court of Criminal Appeals and § 54.02 require the juvenile court to consider, at a minimum,

> (1) whether the alleged offense was against person or property, with greater weight in favor of transfer given to offenses against the person, (2) the sophistication and maturity of the child, (3) the record and previous history of the child; and (4) the prospects of adequate protection of the public and the likelihood of the rehabilitation of the child by use of procedures, services, and facilities currently available to the juvenile court.

Id. at 38 (quoting § 54.02(f)). The court expressly relied upon "as required to be explicit" setting out the juvenile transfer order under Section 54.02(h). In re J.G., 495 S.W.3d at 367 (Tex. App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2016, pet denied); see Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 47; 49-50.

Mitigation evidence falls within those factors and the juvenile court is required to consider this evidence. In re A.K., No. 02-19-00385-CV, 2020 Tex. App. LEXIS 2801, at *21 (Tex. App.—Fort Worth Apr. 2, 2020, no pet.). Mitigation evidence must be included in a § 54.02(h) opinion because a sufficiency review is limited to "the facts that the juvenile court expressly relied upon, as required to be explicit" setting out the juvenile transfer order under Section 54.02(h). In re J.G., 495 S.W.3d at 367 (Tex. App.—Houston [1st Dist.] 2016, pet denied); see Moon, 451 S.W.3d at 47; 49-50.

Section 54.02 establishes that a court has no discretion to waive jurisdiction except when the alleged offense is a felony and the child is at least a certain age—14 or 15, depending on the specific type of felony alleged. Tex. Fam. Code §§ 54.02(a)(1), (2). The Court must then decide whether there is probable cause to believe the child committed the alleged offense. Id. § 54.02(a)(3). But even a finding of probable cause that a juvenile committed a first-degree felony under § 54.02(a) does not justify automatic waiver because such an approach would render required to be explicitly set out in the juvenile transfer order under Section

CONCLUSION AND PRAYER

J.R. asks this Court to:

- Find that the trial court abused its discretion and failed to honor either § 54.02 or Moon and their requirement that the juvenile court explain its deliberative process in a § 54.02(h) opinion;
- Find that the evidence was factually insufficient to support the findings that J.R. was sufficiently mature and sophisticated to certify and that the trial court abused its discretion in certifying J.R.;
- Vacate the certification order; and,
- Any for and all other relief to which Appellant might be entitled.
